

Safflower Technologies International Expansion

Eastern Plains RC&D Area, Inc.

EPRC&D assisted Safflower Technologies International (STI) with an application to the Big Sky Economic Development Trust Fund of the Montana Department of Commerce for funds to complete a feasibility study and business plan for the expansion of an oilseed processing facility. STI has completed the process of purchasing a seed cleaning, handling, and storage equipment and facilities on leased property on the railroad in Fairview, MT. These facilities were a great addition to the overall business plan of STI. STI is now completing the expansion of facilities and its workforce. STI contracts with farmers to grow oil seed crops, including identity preserved safflower varieties. They then package the seed for sale or sell the seed in bulk to a number of repackaging companies in the US and Canada for sale all over the world.
