No-Till Farming Workshop

South Central Nebraska RC&D, in partnership with USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), a local agricultural cooperative, University of Nebraska Extension Service, and area farmers, held a no-till farming workshop in Kearney on August 17, 2010. The workshop was attended by 40 area farmers and agency staff. At left, Dan Gillespie, Nebraska NRCS No-Till expert, demonstrates environmental impacts of no-till farming with a rainfall simulator to workshop participants.
